VORASIT WAN ISSARA

Vorasit Issara, more commonly known by his nickname “Wan”, is the Managing Director & face of Sri panwa. Sri panwa is a family owned & managed estate, created by one of Thailand’s most established developers, the Charn Issara Group, which takes its name from Wan’s grandfather, Charn Issara. The company is well-known for its various establishments, developing some of Thailand’s recognized landmarks, both residential & commercial.

Wan’s family had given him the responsibility to set-up & manage Sri panwa in 2005 when it was merely just the construction of a few Pool Villas that were to set the next benchmark of luxury villa residences in Phuket. He had been given the task of creating & overseeing the company’s luxury estate, a task which he has taken up with considerable relish, overseeing all aspects of the estate including day to day operations, marketing, business development & sales of the estate’s luxury private villas.

Wan was schooled in the UK from the age of nine, he went on to pursue his first degree in Business Management @ Florida International University, thereafter he gained his knowledge & skills in the hotel industry as a graduate of the DCT International School of Hotel & Business Management in Switzerland. Finally, at the pinnacle of his student career, Wan was awarded a Master’s Degree of International Business in Hospitality and Tourism Management by the renowned Cesar Ritz College in Switzerland.

Wan was schooled in the UK from the age of nine and went on to pursue his first degree in Business Management at Florida International University. As a University student, he worked in various nightclubs and famous hotspots as a promoter fuelled by his passion for music and events. Thereafter, Wan gained his knowledge and skills in the hotel industry as a graduate of the DCT International School of Hotel & Business Management in Switzerland. He later received a Honorary Master Degree of International Business in Hospitality and Tourism Management from Cesar Ritz Colleges, Switzerland in 2015.

“On my travels I was always interested in hotels with cool, hip designs, such as the Delano, Shore Club in Miami or Dylan, Amsterdam” says Wan. But when he did his hotel training, he chose to train at the very traditional countryside estate hotel owned & operated by legendary hotelier Robert H. Burns, Grand Hotel a Villa Feltrinelli (Lake Garda, the oldest & most prestigious hotels in Italy) & the Mandarin Oriental Bangkok, & as a University student in Florida he also worked in various nightclubs & famous hotspots as a promoter, so that he could “understand service & hospitality.”

“I already knew what I liked in terms of contemporary design, but I wanted to learn five star service because that is what really makes a luxury hotel,” says Wan.

“The young dynamo has brought all his finesse to bear at Sri panwa &, cleverly, has staffed the hotel with likeminded young people, many of them his friends from childhood & the Swiss hotel school. Wan believes in the importance of being a real team player & being personable. The upshot is that this is no stuffy establishment hotel. The vibe is more private get-together, an insiders’ club run by Wan & his hip young team, all of whom appear to share his vision, energy & love of a good time. You get the distinct impression his staff are working with him rather than for him, so service seems unforced & always friendly.

Wan & his team personify the classic Thai character trait of “sanook”, described in a tourist brochure I read as “the essence of fun” & said to be a guiding principle on the island. I’d have to agree with that – I have more fun in five days on Phuket than I normally do in a month.”

- Kendall Hill for Australian Gourmet Traveller (September 2009)
